ABOUT

Brazilian and Italian artist, Roberta Rech was born in Porto Alegre/Brazil, currently lives in Rome (Italy). With her recent exhibition at the XV Florence Biennale 2025, and at Soho House Rome, the artist investigated the idea of body and face and its relationship with humanity. In this sense, she develops the figures of the paintings to instigate the contradiction of normative life, which have been exhibited around Lisbon/PT, Rome/IT and Brazil.

The main point of its production is to arouse strangeness, her work constructs visual dissonances in which organs, gestures, and fragmented forms unsettle the normative and awaken the uncanny. The dialectical movement can be considered as the guiding thread of the analysis carried out in this work. She investigate the contradiction of normative life, as a critical way to see the human organization. The androgynous body is one of the main strategies to unfold the relationship between painting and observer. Rather than offering clarity, her compositions invite the viewer into a space of unease and resonance, where meaning remains fluid and interpretation profoundly personal.

Above all, her work is made to awaken feelings, whether good, strange, bad, comfortable, or uncomfortable. The communication between the artwork and the observer is subjectively indirect.
